Also did you see his TED talks?
http://syntheticneurobiology.org/videos and http://www.interaxon.ca this is a very cool startup with non-intrusive use of your brain waves (http://www.interaxon.ca/muse/)

Hardly. There isn't enough investment in neuro? Probably, because it has yet to bring very big successes, so it's an early entrepreneur's game. I don't now if the architect role will change either. But the optical simulation of neurons is new and interesting. Let's talk!
